Many A Slip was devised by Ian Messiter, who also was the creator of Just a Minute for the BBC. It ran from 1964 to 1979. Broadcast dates in this catalog were taken from The Radio Times.¹

The chairman and the man who gave the tune-twisters, Roy Plomley and Steve Race respectively, never changed, throughout the run of the show. Many A Slip had at least seven producers during its run. They were Charles Maxwell, who also produced Take it From Here for the BBC, Tony Luke, Peter Titheradge, Trafford Whitelock, John Cassels, Martin Fisher and Paul Mahew-Archer. The series lengths varied from 12 to 19 episodes. Many A Slip! was broadcast on the BBC Home Service and was also sold around the world by the BBC Transcription Service.
