

The AAACEI Delaware Valley Section

Presents

“The Total Cost Management (TCM) Framework; Total Cost Management: A Case Study in Missed Opportunity” Mark your calendars now for January 9, 2008

Two PowerPoint presentations will be shown from the 2007 AAACEI Conference. Excerpts from the presentations: “Williams Northwest Pipeline, NWP, operates an interstate natural gas pipeline system consisting of approximately 4000 miles (6440 km) of trunk line and 42 compressor stations. NWP has access to gas supplies in the Four Corners area and Canadian gas coming across the US border at Sumas, Washington. In 2004, with increased drilling in the Four Corners area including the Piceance Basin, NWP experienced growing demand to move gas through the south end of its system. To move these increased gas volumes required restarting the idled and unmanned Vernal Compressor station. This station had been essentially idle for approximately 20 years. The first attempt at starting up the station resulted in failure. With extensive use of district operations personnel, the station was started and kept running.” And, “Focusing on the strategic asset planning process of the Total Cost Management (TCM) Framework, this case study will analyze the lifecycle costs for the alternatives and the current state of costs of the original decision agreed to by the stakeholders.”

Presenter: Jim Burns will be reading from the speaker notes and providing a PowerPoint presentation from the 2007 Conference.
