

PARANORMAL HAPPENINGS AT CARNATION CEMETERY

Edited and compiled from email received at Northwest Hauntings <<http://home.comcast.net/~northwesthauntings/>>
Used with permission of the submitter, name and email private.

From: <private> <email private>
Subject: Carnation Cemetery
Date: June 1, 2008 11:50:38 PM PDT
To: NorthwestHauntings

Hello!!

Since I found the source of this cemetery from your website I figured that you would like to here about the experience that my good friend and I had this weekend.

Being just random ghost hunters or just out for a small scare, we had never experience anything like this until, now. We've been searching everywhere and going everywhere in Washington looking for something to happen, but this place was the first place to have something happen to either of us.

OUR FIRST STOP THAT NIGHT (Around 830PM)

After we had gotten to Carnation and driven by a few time to check it out we parked our truck and walked to the cemetery. Trying not to walk over headstones and trying to be as respectful as possible to the dead, we decided to make a full circle around the cemetery first.

Near the back, if you walk down the center path and to the left and few steps, my friend had a hard time breathing, but once we walked away he was fine (Still creepy though) We continued to walked around, our cameras weren't really capturing anything in the dark. As we walked around towards the grave listing, I heard and felt someone walking right beside me. I instantly turned around and clung to my friend :D Being creeped out we scanned the area, nothing was there. We continued to walk and the footsteps followed us, my friend couldn't hear any of the footsteps though. We decided to leave and come back a little later.

OUR SECOND STOP (1130PM)

After driving by it again, the cemetery instantly had us both creeped out. Going back in, we walked around the outside again, only this time when we passed the point where my friend had a hard time breathing, he almost passed out, he had a hard time breathing again and was wavering back and forth leaning on me. He doesn't remember the that happening only that everything went black for a moment. After getting on the paved path we tried taking pictures again and got nothing, we walked around a little bit more, we didn't here the footsteps anymore for awhile just had the sense that someone was watching us. We sat down in the middle and tried recording something the first recording we hadn't said anything to talk to the ghost just sat and waited. After awhile we walked around some more, my friend started hearing the footsteps at a far distance away from us. We decide to talk to them, and walked back over to the headstone where he had a hard time breathing, and asked if there were any spirits that wanted to talk to us, and got nothing we asked again and got a very angry moan back. We left quickly and were extremely freaked out at that point.

NEXT MORNING (Noonish)

We went back during the day and nothing happened. Aside for the fact that it felt like someone was watching us. My friend said that there was someone following us around cause he could here the footsteps, but I couldn't. There was one strange thing that I notice though, There is a grave sight of a little girl that has a pin wheel next to it. It was spinning at a high rate of speed, with no wind what so ever.

That was my experience the pictures that did turn out though showed nothing really interesting aside from some orbs but nothing big. But we do have a recording of something being there and what ever it is doesn't really like my friend very much.

Hope this helps in some of your research of the area!

We are going out again in a few weeks, and maybe we might get some more pictures that could explain things.