

#17 Work Sample

Mandala Project

Henry Street School for International Studies

New York, NY
May 2007

The kids in New York thought mandalas were pretty cool.

Works in progress.

Detail of an almost-finished mandala.

It was a dream come true. Christine was invited by the art teacher at the Henry Street School for International Studies in Manhattan to lead a mandala workshop for seventh graders.

The school paid Christine's airfare and a living stipend to make it possible for her to travel to New York for the first time in her life.

Three beautiful mandalas were created on large sheets of canvas for permanent installation at the school.

Prior to Christine's arrival, the students studied mandalas and made their own on vinyl records.